

FIRST ICDL GRADUATES AT MORAYFIELD STATE HIGH SCHOOL

ACS Queensland State Manager Barry Snashall presented the first ICDL graduates with their licences on November 16 at a special ceremony at the school. Parents joined with teachers in congratulating the students on their commendable achievement. Acting Principal Julie Steel also added how proud the school was to be able to assist the students to attain such a prestigious technology qualification from which employment could be gained and further studies could be launched.

Students are able to access the ICDL through middle school Business Technology and have up to two semesters to complete the course. Head of Business Studies, Anne Nunan, said, "Students are very motivated to gain their licences and they certainly see the benefits of having an internationally recognised qualification. We are committed to maximising the number of students successfully completing the ICDL modules."

The program has gained momentum during the year, and the next group of students is expected to complete the course early in December.
